

Internet Technology

Connecting Intelligence

Assignment

HTML Newspaper Implementation

Objective:

Recreate a newspaper-style webpage using HTML and CSS based on the provided UI design

Technical Specifications

1. Design Implementation

- You must match the layout shown in provide UI as closely as possible
- Pay attention to:
 - Font hierarchy (headlines vs body text)
 - Column structure
 - Spacing between elements
 - Color scheme

2. HTML Requirements

<!-- Example structure you must implement -->

```
<article class="news-story">
```

```
  <h2 class="headline">Main Headline</h2>
```

```
  By AUTHOR NAME
```

```

```

```
  Image caption text
```

```

```

```
    First paragraph...
```

```

```

```
</article>
```

3. CSS Requirements

/* Required styling elements */

```
.newspaper {
    column-count: 3;
    column-gap: 2em;
    column-rule: 1px solid #ddd;
}
```

```
.headline {
    font-family: "Times New Roman", serif;
    font-weight: 700;
    color: #222;
}
```

```
.caption {
    font-size: 0.8em;
    font-style: italic;
}
```

THE DAILY CHRONICLE

All the News That's Fit to Print

VOL. CLXVIII . No. 58,429 | NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 2025 | PRICE 50¢

President Announces New Climate Initiative

By JAMES R. ELLIOTT | WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON - President Johnson unveiled an ambitious $2 trillion climate change plan yesterday that would transform the nation's energy infrastructure over the next decade, calling it "the most significant investment in our planet's future since the moon landing."

The proposal, dubbed the "Green New Horizon," would create millions of jobs while rapidly accelerating the transition to renewable energy sources. Key components include:

- Complete decarbonization of the power grid by 2035
- Tax incentives for electric vehicle adoption
- Modernization of public transportation systems
- Funding for climate resilience projects

"This isn't just about saving the planet for future generations—it's about creating good jobs right now for American workers," the President said during his Rose Garden announcement.

Republican leaders immediately criticized the plan as too expensive and government-heavy. Senate Minority Leader Mark Richardson (R-KY) called it "a socialist wish list that will cripple our economy."

ROOM FOR RENT - Upper West Side.

Sunny, spacious room in pre-war building.
$1,200/mo. Near subway. No pets. Call 212-555-0192

Ethical Concerns Raised

While the technology dazzled attendees, ethicists warned about potential dangers. "We need strict regulations before deploying such powerful AI," said MIT professor Dr. Helena Minsky. "The risks of misuse or unintended consequences are enormous."

NeuroTech says EVA will initially be available only to research institutions and will undergo extensive safety testing before any commercial release.

Yankees Win Home Opener in Extra Innings

By MICHAEL T. RODRIGUEZ | SPORTS WRITER

BRONX - In a thrilling season opener at Yankee Stadium last night, the home team defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-5 in 11 innings, with rookie sensation Carlos Mendez hitting a walk-off home run.

The game featured:

- A benches-clearing brawl in the 7th inning
- Three lead changes
- An incredible catch by center fielder Jamal Williams
- The longest game in opening day history (4 hours, 38 minutes)

"This is why we play the game," said Yankees manager Dave Martinez. "That was baseball at its heart."

"Starry Night Over the Rhône" will be part of the exhibition

Met Announces Blockbuster Van Gogh Exhibition

The Metropolitan Museum of Art revealed plans for "Van Gogh: The Complete Journey," the most comprehensive exhibition of the artist's work ever assembled, opening June 15.

The show will feature over 200 pieces, including rarely seen private collection works and newly authenticated drawings. A special virtual reality experience will allow visitors to "step inside" several of Van Gogh's most famous paintings.

ADVERTISEMENT

Columbia University Extension - Fall registration now open! Over 100 courses in arts, sciences, and professional studies. Evening and weekend classes available. Visit extension.columbia.edu or call 212-555-0125 cripple our economy."

Meanwhile, environmental groups praised the initiative while urging even more aggressive action. "This is a good start, but the science demands we move faster," said Sierra Club executive director Maya Chen.

Local Impact

For New Yorkers, the plan would mean significant upgrades to subway infrastructure, expanded bike lanes, and new job training programs in green energy sectors. Mayor Williams hailed the proposal as "exactly what cities need to combat climate change while rebuilding our middle class."

Tech Giant Unveils Revolutionary AI Assistant

By SARAH K. LEWIS | TECHNOLOGY CORRESPONDENT

SAN FRANCISCO - NeuroTech Inc. yesterday demonstrated what it calls "the world's first truly sentient artificial intelligence," named EVA, capable of complex reasoning, emotional intelligence, and creative problem-solving beyond current AI systems.

During a 90-minute live demonstration, EVA:

- Diagnosed a complex medical case (with physician supervision)
- Composed an original piano sonata in the style of Beethoven
- Engaged in philosophical debate about consciousness
- Solved advanced quantum physics equations

"This represents a fundamental breakthrough in machine learning," said NeuroTech CEO Dr. Alan Fischer. "EVA doesn't just process information—she understands context, nuance, and even humor."

CLASSIFIED AD

best."

"When I saw that fastball coming, I just swung with everything I had. Hearing the crowd erupt—that's a feeling I'll never forget." - Carlos Mendez

The teams meet again tonight at 7:05 PM, with ace pitcher Luis Tanaka scheduled to start for the Yankees.

Today's Weather

New York City: Sunny with clouds increasing in the afternoon. High 68°F. Winds NE at 5-10 mph.

Tonight: Partly cloudy. Low 52°F.

Tomorrow: Chance of showers. High 63°F.

BREAKING NEWS

Subway Derailment in Brooklyn

BROOKLYN - A Manhattan-bound F train derailed near the Jay St-MetroTech station this morning during rush hour, causing significant delays on multiple lines. Emergency responders are on the scene.

Initial reports indicate at least 12 minor injuries but no fatalities. MTA officials say service will be disrupted for several hours while the incident is investigated.

Alternate routes are being established, with increased bus service along affected routes. Commuters are advised to avoid the area if possible.

Arts & Culture

Broadway Review: 'American Elegy' Stuns

The new play by Pulitzer winner August Wilson Jr. opened last night to standing ovations at the Cort Theatre. Starring Viola Davis and Chadwick Boseman, this generational saga about a Black family in 20th century America is being called "the theatrical event of the decade" by critics.

Performances continue through August, with talk of a possible London transfer next year.

Business & Finance

Stock Markets Reach Record Highs

NEW YORK - The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 45,000 for the first time yesterday amid optimism about the economic recovery and strong corporate earnings reports.

Index	Close	Change
Dow Jones	45,102.87	+328.45
S&P 500	5,213.76	+42.18
NASDAQ	15,887.23	+156.92

"The market continues to show remarkable resilience," said Goldman Sachs chief economist Dr. Lisa Wong. "While we expect some volatility ahead, the fundamentals remain strong."

Amazon Workers Vote to Unionize

In a landmark decision, workers at an Amazon fulfillment center in Staten Island voted overwhelmingly to join the International Warehouse Workers Union yesterday—the first successful unionization effort at an Amazon facility in the U.S.

The 1,543-982 vote comes after a contentious two-year organizing campaign that saw allegations of union-busting tactics from Amazon, which denies the claims.

Core References:

1. MDN Web Docs:
 - HTML Basics
 - CSS Styling
2. W3Schools:
 - HTML Semantic Elements
 - CSS Columns

Advanced Concepts (Bonus):

- CSS Variables for consistent styling
- Basic print stylesheets
- CSS pseudo-elements for typographic effects
- Responsive design considerations

Late Submission Policy:

- 10% deduction per day for late submissions
- No submissions accepted after 3 days past deadline

Academic Integrity Notice:

All code must be your original work. You may reference tutorials and documentation, but direct copying from other students or online sources without proper attribution will result in academic penalties.

FAQ:

Q: Can I use CSS frameworks like Bootstrap?

A: No, this assignment focuses on fundamental HTML/CSS skills.

Q: How many articles are required?

A: Minimum three, but more may improve your grade.

Q: Can I work with a partner?

A: This is an individual assignment.

Q: What if I'm stuck on a technical issue?

A: Refer to the resources first, then contact me with specific questions.

Grading will be based on:

1. Technical implementation (70%)
2. Design quality (20%)
3. Code professionalism (10%)

This assignment contributes 20% to your final course grade.

Good luck with your newspaper project!

Article content ->

You can copy and paste this content

The Daily Chronicle

By JAMES R. ELLIOTT | WASHINGTON BUREAU 8-10 minutes

President Announces New Climate Initiative

WASHINGTON - President Johnson unveiled an ambitious $2 trillion climate change plan yesterday that would transform the nation's energy infrastructure over the next decade, calling it "the most significant investment in our planet's future since the moon landing."

The proposal, dubbed the "Green New Horizon," would create millions of jobs while rapidly accelerating the transition to renewable energy sources. Key components include:

- Complete decarbonization of the power grid by 2035
- Tax incentives for electric vehicle adoption
- Modernization of public transportation systems
- Funding for climate resilience projects

"This isn't just about saving the planet for future generations—it's about creating good jobs right now for American workers," the President said during his Rose Garden announcement.

Republican leaders immediately criticized the plan as too expensive and government-heavy. Senate Minority Leader Mark Richardson (R-KY) called it "a socialist wish list that will cripple our economy."

Meanwhile, environmental groups praised the initiative while urging even more aggressive action. "This is a good start, but the science demands we move faster," said Sierra Club executive director Maya Chen.

Local Impact

For New Yorkers, the plan would mean significant upgrades to subway infrastructure, expanded bike lanes, and new job training programs in green energy sectors. Mayor Williams hailed the proposal as "exactly what cities need to combat climate change while rebuilding our middle class."

Tech Giant Unveils Revolutionary AI Assistant

By SARAH K. LEWIS | TECHNOLOGY CORRESPONDENT

SAN FRANCISCO - NeuroTech Inc. yesterday demonstrated what it calls "the world's first truly sentient artificial intelligence," named EVA, capable of complex reasoning, emotional intelligence, and creative problem-solving beyond current AI systems.

During a 90-minute live demonstration, EVA:

- Diagnosed a complex medical case (with physician supervision)
- Composed an original piano sonata in the style of Beethoven
- Engaged in philosophical debate about consciousness
- Solved advanced quantum physics equations

"This represents a fundamental breakthrough in machine learning," said NeuroTech CEO Dr. Alan Fischer. "EVA doesn't just process information—she understands context, nuance, and even humor."

CLASSIFIED AD

ROOM FOR RENT - Upper West Side. Sunny, spacious room in pre-war building. $1,200/mo. Near subway. No pets. Call 212-555-0192

Ethical Concerns Raised

While the technology dazzled attendees, ethicists warned about potential dangers. "We need strict regulations before deploying such powerful AI," said MIT professor Dr. Helena Minsky. "The risks of misuse or unintended consequences are enormous."

NeuroTech says EVA will initially be available only to research institutions and will undergo extensive safety testing before any commercial release.

Yankees Win Home Opener in Extra Innings

By MICHAEL T. RODRIGUEZ | SPORTS WRITER

BRONX - In a thrilling season opener at Yankee Stadium last night, the home team defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-5 in 11 innings, with rookie sensation Carlos Mendez hitting a walk-off home run.

The game featured:

- A benches-clearing brawl in the 7th inning
- Three lead changes
- An incredible catch by center fielder Jamal Williams
- The longest game in opening day history (4 hours, 38 minutes)

"This is why we play the game," said Yankees manager Dave Martinez. "That was baseball at its best."

"When I saw that fastball coming, I just swung with everything I had. Hearing the crowd erupt—that's a feeling I'll never forget." - Carlos Mendez

The teams meet again tonight at 7:05 PM, with ace pitcher Luis Tanaka scheduled to start for the Yankees.

Today's Weather

New York City: Sunny with clouds increasing in the afternoon. High 68°F. Winds NE at 5-10 mph.

Tonight: Partly cloudy. Low 52°F.

Tomorrow: Chance of showers. High 63°F.

BREAKING NEWS Subway Derailment in Brooklyn

BROOKLYN - A Manhattan-bound F train derailed near the Jay St-MetroTech station this morning during rush hour, causing significant delays on multiple lines. Emergency responders are on the scene.

Initial reports indicate at least 12 minor injuries but no fatalities. MTA officials say service will be disrupted for several hours while the incident is investigated.

Alternate routes are being established, with increased bus service along affected routes. Commuters are advised to avoid the area if possible.

Arts & Culture

"Starry Night Over the Rhône" will be part of the exhibition

Met Announces Blockbuster Van Gogh Exhibition

The Metropolitan Museum of Art revealed plans for "Van Gogh: The Complete Journey," the most comprehensive exhibition of the artist's work ever assembled, opening June 15.

The show will feature over 200 pieces, including rarely seen private collection works and newly authenticated drawings. A special virtual reality experience will allow visitors to "step inside" several of Van Gogh's most famous paintings.

ADVERTISEMENT

Columbia University Extension - Fall registration now open! Over 100 courses in arts, sciences, and professional studies. Evening and weekend classes available. Visit extension.columbia.edu or call 212-555-0125

Broadway Review: 'American Elegy' Stuns

The new play by Pulitzer winner August Wilson Jr. opened last night to standing ovations at the Cort Theatre. Starring Viola Davis and Chadwick Boseman, this generational saga about a Black family in 20th century America is being called "the theatrical event of the decade" by critics.

Performances continue through August, with talk of a possible London transfer next year.

Business & Finance

Stock Markets Reach Record Highs

NEW YORK - The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 45,000 for the first time yesterday amid optimism about the economic recovery and strong corporate earnings reports.

Index	Close	Change
Dow Jones	45,102.87	+328.45
S&P 500	5,213.76	+42.18
NASDAQ	15,887.23	+156.92

"The market continues to show remarkable resilience," said Goldman Sachs chief economist Dr. Lisa Wong. "While we expect some volatility ahead, the fundamentals remain strong."

Amazon Workers Vote to Unionize

In a landmark decision, workers at an Amazon fulfillment center in Staten Island voted overwhelmingly to join the International Warehouse Workers Union yesterday—the first successful unionization effort at an Amazon facility in the U.S.

The 1,543-982 vote comes after a contentious two-year organizing campaign that saw allegations of union-busting tactics from Amazon, which denies the claims.